Dear General Meyer:

Recently at my request General Jasper Welch talked with you about service on our Military Advisory Panel. Your distinguished military career, including combat experience in two wars and service as Chief of Staff of the Army, makes you an outstanding candidate for the Panel, and I would be most pleased if you would agree to serve as a member.

The Panel meets quarterly for the primary purpose of reviewing National Intelligence Estimates and other intelligence products which cover military subjects. In addition, from time to time individual Panel members are asked to consult with National Intelligence Officers on special projects.

I value the seasoned judgments on military issues which the members provide to the Intelligence Community. I realize that you and the other members of the Panel have busy schedules, but I believe you will find the quarterly meetings to be both informative and intellectually stimulating.

Sincerely yours,

/s/ William H. Webster
